

This book is a very useful tool for school counselors or other professionals working with parents and children! It has a myriad of activities, with easy to follow instructions. I recommend it heartily!"

Jane Goodman, President of the American Counseling Association

Thanks for the fun games -- they were surprisingly insightful. We were both amazed to learn so many things about each other that we never knew. I'm so glad we came!"

Susan Fillmore, mother

"It was fun with my dad. It was the first time he wrote me a love letter."

Kyle Stevenson, son (6)

Scott Ertl has a special gift of helping families remember their love for one another. His enthusiasm empowers participants to want to play, laugh, and have fun! But he doesn't stop there--he shares his established techniques to stimulate heart-to-heart discussions, activities & marketing strategies for the reader to get the same results!

Thousands of families have found Parent-Child Retreats to be the perfect way to rekindle the love they have for one another. Having other families sharing the same struggles and enthusiasm makes it easier for them to share honestly and openly. The creative and thought-provoking discussions and exercises are geared for participants to have fun without competing. Scott earned his Master's degree from Virginia Commonwealth University and works as a school counselor in Winston-Salem, NC when he's not facilitating Parent-Child Retreats or trainings.
